PRESIDENT HITS DETROIT TRUCKER DICTATORSHIP RUNS 'FLASHER', IN N. E. A. TALK FINED $5, COSTS

NEW YORK, June 30—(UP)—President Roosevelt inferentially but vigorously criticized government by dictatorship today.

Addressing delegates to the convention of the National Education Association, on the grounds of the 1939 World Fair, he spoke out against the suppression of art and culture in such a way that he left no doubt in his listeners' minds that he was referring to events in Germany since the Nazis took power.

He mentioned no names.

An hour before, the President had addressed local and foreign dignitaries in laying the cornerstone of what will be the federal building at the fair.

Declaring that education must be kept intellectually free, he said that "such things did not need as much emphasis a generation ago; but when the clock of civilization can be turned back by burning libraries, by exiling scientists, artists, musicians, writers and teachers, by dispersing universities, and by censoring news and literature and art, an added burden is placed on those countries where the torch of free thought and free learning still burns bright."

100 JAPS KNOWN DEAD AS GREAT TYPHOON STRIKES

TOKYO, June 30.—(UP)—At least 100 persons were killed and nearly 500,000 homeless today as a result of a typhoon and three days of violent rains.

Landslides caused most of the deaths, including 36 in the Yokohama district and nine on the outskirts of Tokyo where a wall on the estate of Baron Mitsui collapsed.

The typhoon today appeared to be moving out into the Pacific and it was believed that Tokyo probably would escape its full force.

Police estimated that approximately 150,000 homes were flooded. Refugees were quartered in schools, theatres and in the homes of relatives.

DEPUTY SEALER INJURED WHILE REPAIRING FENCE

Ned Dresbach, deputy sealer of weights and measures, suffered a severe cut on his right hand Wednesday evening when he was repairing a break in a fence at the farm of Miss Mary Dresbach near Tarlton. A piece of barbed wire slipped across his hand.

Children of Mrs. Anna C. Ryan, E. High street, are named beneficiaries under her will, admitted to probate Wednesday. They are to share the personal property equally. Her daughters, Misses Edith and Edna, Circleville, are given a house and lot at Union and Clinton streets.

The daughters, Mrs. Margaret R. Martin, Columbus, Mrs. Anna R. Graf, Chillicothe, and a son, Jack, Circleville, are bequeathed the home on E. High street.

SHERIFF, AIDS HUNT GYPSIES AFTER ROBBERY

George Wrightsel Reports Theft Of $21.50 From His Purse

OTHER LOOTING CHECKED

Band Operating In Other Ohio Counties

The sheriff's department was searching Thursday for a band of gypsies, members of which robbed George Wrightsel, E. Corwin street, of $21.50.

Mr. Wrightsel said he met the gypsies about 8:15 a.m. Thursday but did not learn that his money was missing until about 10 o'clock. He said he was walking on Corwin street when a large car carrying three gypsies, one man and two women, approached him and a woman in the front seat inquired concerning the name of the city.

She told Mr. Wrightsel she was deaf and he would have to talk louder. He said the gypsy opened the front door of the car, sat sideways in the seat and he walked close to the car to talk. Mr. Wrightsel said the woman did not leave the car. Later he discovered the money missing from his purse. He believes the gypsy took the purse from his pocket, removed the money, then returned it.

The sheriff's department said at noon that gypsy robbers had been reported in Fayette county and near Laurelvile.

COUNTY RELIEF EXPENSE LOWER

PICKAWAY county has had a steady drop in relief expense during the first six months of 1938.

During the month only 15 families that received aid had able bodied men within the family. The gradual drop in cases is clearly shown in the reports of months. They are: January, 450 cases, $4,397; February, 463 cases, $4,529.40; March, 315 cases, $3,905.15; April, 290 cases, $3,839.09 and May 212 cases, $3,762.93.

MANY OF OHIO WORKERS FACE SALARY DELAYS

General Revenue Fund Gone,
Auditor Declares With Payroll Due

INSTITUTIONS SUFFER
Deficit in Old Age Pension
Treasury Cited

COLUMBUS, June 30—(UP)—Depletion of the state's general revenue fund to vanishing point will mean a delay of several days in meeting the $300,000 June welfare institution payroll and a lag of nearly a month in paying other bills outstanding against the fund, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson predicted today.

Warning that the general revenue fund "is broke," Ferguson said it was doubtful whether June salary payments could be made on schedule July 5 to about 3,800 institutional employees.

Likewise, he found it necessary to transfer $160,000 from the undivided intangibles tax fund to meet old age pension grants this month in 22 counties. This was necessary, Ferguson said because of insufficient federal matching funds, traceable to incorrect estimates of the state old age pension division of the need for federal money. Delayed checks will reach pensioner in a day or so, he added.

Collections Awaited

Ferguson said he hoped early collections of taxes on foreign insurance companies and domestic and foreign business franchises would make payments of institutional workers possible "by July 9 or 10." Other bills, it was indicated might have to go over until August when additional collections are expected to raise the fund to perhaps $5,000,000 or $6,000,000.

Welfare workers may suffer because their payrolls is presented last each month. Employees of other departments probably will receive their checks on time as sufficient funds were on hand when their pay vouchers came in.

The general revenue fund which is subject to drastic fluctuations, is usually low during early summer months, but this year "expenditures merely exceeded the receipts," according to the auditor.

For the last six months it has been necessary for the state to finance a deficit in old age pension funds amounting to a total of $400,000. Ferguson said, because federal money was not available in adequate amounts.

He said officials of the division of aid for the aged made too low an estimate on the amount the state would need in federal matching money to pay all monthly awards, and indicated that unless conditions were remedied, a more serious problem might arise in meeting July pension grants.

It was understood that of the $400,000, the federal government would pay in approximately $281,000 by the end of next month and the balance in October.

Farmer Has Completed His Harvest for 1938

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Ashville, Phone 79

Doc Derrett, they told us Wednesday evening, is through threshing his wheat crop for 1938, but the party failed to know the number of bushels, quality or moisture content. Yesterday was an ideal drying day and both the combine and threshing machine wheat will be coming into the market in larger quantities each day. Benford Millar was first in with a load of threshing machine wheat which tested 58 with a moisture of 16, so they told us. Some "combined" wheat was received but will have to be run through the dryer to reduce the moisture for shipment or storage.

Park Inspected
Being "Referee of the Court" we have the right to make inspections of any and all kinds of work going on in the village with power to enforce orders same as the League of Nations. But our talk sometimes does a lot of good, lightens the chest a heap. Made yesterday evening one of these inspection trips out to the park and am much pleased with what has been done there and this especially refers to the rebuilding of the rickety old bleachers and the toilets and bubble fountain. The "boys" have done a good job and we are glad to brag on 'em kids like this, you know.

Blocks Being Made
Fred Curry and his force are making cement blocks again, the supply having run low. Herb Gregg is finishing a new addition to Spaeth's Place which will be ready for occupancy in a few days, they said. And Rubie Webber and his workers, Woodrow Bandy and Ed Wells are placing a new sanitary sewer for Mrs. Hattie Rife. We know for sure the boys did not loaf on the job. And more, the fireworks are here in Ashville in storage and ready for the word to cut loose. The boys told us the cost was $150 and if they've fibbed about it, there will be plenty of fireworks waiting for 'em below.

More Pheasants Expected
The state hatchery at Newark, some weeks ago sent Benford Millar near So. Bloomfield, 600 baby pheasants. These without scarcely any loss, are confined in 27 small pens. And now very soon, will be transferred to larger quarters and 600 more from the same hatchery will be placed in the pens vacated by the first lot. The first shipment will have their liberty about August 1, being distributed in different parts of the county. It is the fees paid for hunters' licenses, that make this rearing of pheasants possible. And the fishing license fees place millions of small fish in streams over the state.

PLEA OF KILLER CONSIDERED BY CLEMENCY BOARD

COLUMBUS, June 30—(UP)—The Ohio clemency board today had under advisement the plea for mercy by counsel for William Hobbs, Hamilton, sentenced to die in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary July 6.

Attorney Fred Kramer told the Hobbs was under the influence of liquor at the time of the robbery April 12, 1937, when he is accused of slaying Patrolman Arthur Sponcell of Hamilton.

Prosecutor and Paul Baden said it was admitted Hobbs was intoxicated at the time but such circumstance was not sufficient reason for clemency.

The board will make a recommendation to Governor Davey.

balance of only $119,358 in the general revenue fund with vouchers in excess of that amount outstanding. Expenditures have reduced it by approximately $4,000,000 since June 1. It has decreased steadily since March 1 when the total stood at $8,800,000.

He said officials of the division of aid for the aged made too low an estimate on the amount the state would need in federal matching money to pay all monthly awards, and indicated that unless conditions were remedied, a more serious problem might arise in meeting July pension grants.

Veterans of North and South Recall Gettysburg

Confederate Soldier, 93, Tells Story

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 30—(UP)—Old Memories puffed like the smoke of cannon from the battlefield at Gettysburg today when veterans of the Civil War looked again on the hills that shook with the thunder of conflict three quarters of a century ago.

Men in blue along the cemetery wall where Meade's troops once lay in the grass; gray-jacketed veterans in the woods of Seminary ridge from which once billowed Pickett's brigades; and a mingling of gray and blue across the rolling farmlands marked the final reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans on the 75th anniversary of the battle.

For three days, almost 2,000 veterans from North and South have been gathering for the anniversary observance which formally opens tomorrow. Only stragglers were coming into the huge tent cities on the outskirts of the town this morning in contrast to the train-loads which arrived yesterday. This day they rested, reminisced, and saw again the greatest battlefield of the war in which they fought.

Major General O. R. Gellette saw it and the memory of another hot day long ago popped like distant gunfire in his mind.

Congressman Ran

"I was young then, but I was big as any man," he said, and his old eyes half closed as he remembered. "I was 15 when I fought at Bull Run and the congressmen who came out with their cigars to see us rebels licked went home in a hurry, I tell you."

"I carried Jackson from the field at Chancellorsville, and then we come up the Shenandoah. The crops wasn't much. We supported Pickett's left and when he charged we went too. We could see the peaches in the trees across the field. The corn was knee-high. It was a hot day and we fought."

The burden of 93 years hasn't bent Gellette's broad shoulders. His eyes are bright and the words snap from his lips. But few who walked those hills had seen or could remember the awful fury of those days when cannon thunder threaded the sky and gun wheels pressed the yellow wheat into the dirt of the fertile valley.

Here, where the Blue Ridge foothills fade into rolling farmlands, the army of Northern Virginia rolled northward behind "Jeb" Stuart's cavalry to strike at Harrisburg and Philadelphia to find shoes for weary feet and food to fill knapsacks almost empties of parched corn rations.

Gellette remembered it, how Lee's war-tired men came out of the Shenandoah and into the land of the Pennsylvania Dutch.

"The crops wasn't much," he said, "because of the war."

And he remembered, too, how Meade's army of the Potomac reached out along the roads that centered like spokes of a wheel at Gettysburg, and how they met

It Was A Lucky Day When We Installed A Gas Refrigerator

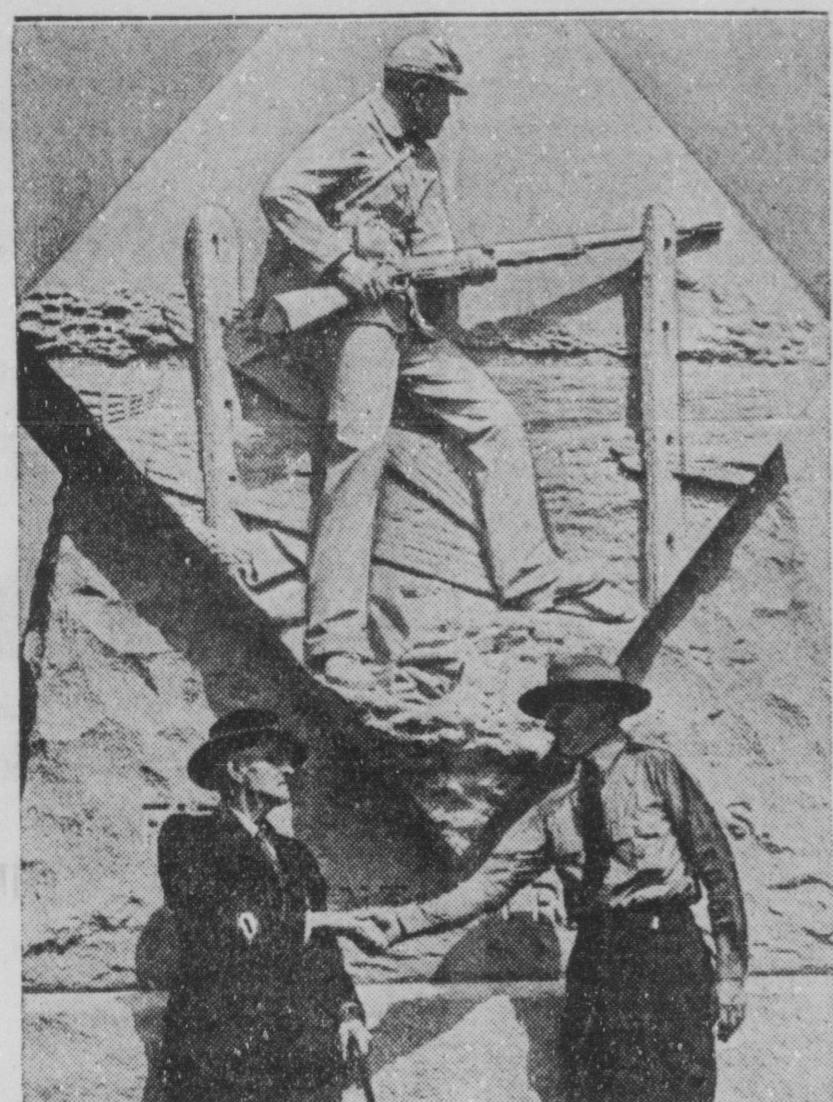

These pages from a diary tell the story of gas refrigeration's lasting satisfaction. Year after year, even the earliest Servel Electrolux models continue to operate as silently and as economically as the day they were installed. There are no moving parts in the freezing unit to lose efficiency or become noisy — nothing to require costly upkeep. Install a new Servel Electrolux in your home now — and save more for many years. As Veterans Gather there to fight and to forget they ever needed shoes.

ALVIN F. TOLMAN (left), 90-year-old Civil War veteran from Nanatee, Fla., and Watertown, Mass., was the first to arrive for the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg at the historic battlefield in Pennsylvania. He is shown shaking hands with James R. McConaghie, superintendent of the Gettysburg National Military Park. For the first time in history both North and South take part in the anniversary encampment.

"We opened the battle," he said, his strong hand sweeping out toward the fields west of the town. "The town is different now than it was then, but there's two buildings I recognized right off. They say Lincoln stopped in one of them later to finish a speech he made here. I was in Davis brigade, Heath's division, Hill's corps, the army of Northern Virginia."

Not Gellette or any of the rest saw more than a flicker of the whole picture when the advance guards curved together on that first day 75 years ago; or when they dug their worn boots into the turf of nearby ridges on the following days that marked with hot blood the spots on which their grandsons would build statues of marble or bronze. They have seen the statues and they have read the story, but time has touched their words with the stilted flavor of a history book.

Lee's Gamble

This was Lee's gamble—a gamble that must come in any war. But this time it was a chance he took with full knowledge that it must mean final success or failure. Behind his men in Virginia lay victories that had brightened their swords, but left little food for their stomachs. Ahead of him was a rich granary of the North. Thus they moved, partly by chance, toward the fish-hook shaped ridges of Gettysburg and the tall, thin-lipped Meade who came hesitantly up from the Potomac with no choice but to meet them on northern soil.

"It was Reynolds opposed us first," Gellette remembered. "We lost Captain Stone when he was wounded the first day. We drove them back after Reynolds was killed and chased them through the town. We lost a lot of men on that day."

That was the day Lee might have won the battle of Gettysburg and gone on to make some other field the site of heroic statues and the scene of presidential pilgrimages. But the rebel yell died out with the sun. Next day Meade's men crouched behind the stone wall on Cemetery hill, many of them within sight of their own farms, and the two armies braced for the test of strength.

Recalled by Union Man

R. W. Huff, 98, of San Bernardino, Calif., remembered that day from his post in the Union lines.

So did John C. Smith, 108, of Meridian, Miss., whose 46th Georgia regiment charged toward the rocky slopes of Little Roundtop hill, a stride behind Union troops, urgently summoned to guard that key to the battle grounds.

Somewhere in that furious charge across the valley, a spent bullet thudded into Smith's cheek and he spit it out into his powder-blackened hand and went on to fight across the hill top and, finally, to give it up to the Union reinforcements.

There were others here today who remembered it, too. One was Allan McClue, 88, of Santa Monica, Calif., who carried water to the Union men sprawled along the ridge; another was Charles D. Clarke, of Austin, Texas, who lay among the Confederates watching the artillery a mile away across the valley; and still another was Robert C. Blair, 94, of Los Angeles, who rode with the 16th Pennsylvania cavalry through the woods beyond Spangler's spring and listened for the defiant yell of Stuart's horsemen.

"That was our job," Blair said with a hesitant chuckle. "Looking for J. E. B. Stuart and trying to

Last Day Test

Gellette, the tall, ramrod-backed southerner who came here from his home at Bossier, La., remembers that last day most clearly of all. It was the final test—a thrust by Pickett's brigade at the Union center after attacks on both flanks.

"We were supporting Pickett's left," Gellette said. "There was heavy artillery fire from both sides. The field in front of us looked like ploughed ground where the shells hit."

Not far away, Lee sat astride his white horse, Traveller, on the hillside where they stand today in bronze. A mile away on the opposite hill, behind a little clump of trees, Meade's horse moved restlessly while the guns rattled against the sky. They had been

MARIETTA FETE TO OPEN JULY 2, CLOSES JULY 17

Second Issue Of Wooden Nickles On Sale As Part Of Event

MARIETTA, June 30—(UP)—The second issue of "wooden nickels" has gone on sale here as part of the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the establishment of American civil government West of the 13 original states.

The event will be celebrated from July 2-17 with spectacular pageants, parades, fireworks, conventions of historical and patriotic organizations, an American Legion festival, memorial dedication ceremonies and a reunion of pioneers' descendants.

A pageant, "Stars of the Flag," with a cast of 1,200 will be presented daily July 7 to 17 on a 300-foot stage in Marietta Stadium.

Roosevelt to Speak

On July 8 President Roosevelt is scheduled to dedicate the National Memorial to "The Start of the Nation Westward" designed by Gutzon Borglum and erected in the park on the east bank of the Muskingum river.

During the April celebration of the 150th anniversary of the landing of the Ohio Company pioneers at the mouth of the Muskingum, more than 60,000 rectangular wooden nickels circulated throughout the country, and the complete series of six issues has become prized by collectors of souvenirs.

The Northwest Territory Celebration Commission plans to limit the July nickels to five issues of 5,000 each and one de luxe issue according to the demand.

The nickels are redeemable in U. S. coin until July 18. Although the odd medium of exchange is being widely circulated and is accepted by merchants in Marietta and nearby communities, there have been few requests for redemption.

Special Stamp Issue

The Post Office Department will issue a special 3-cent stamp for first-day sale at Marietta, July 15. To provide an appropriate official cover for use with this stamp, the commission has announced a series of four cachets, designed to commemorate the sequence of historical events connected with the establishment of American government in the Northwest Territory in 1788.

Central feature of the new stamp, purple in color and .75x.87 inches in size, is a view of the riverside memorial, designed by Borglum. The Northwest Territory Anniversary series of covers is of particular interest historically. The first cover shows, against a background map of the Territory, the advent of French missionaries, fur traders and explorers. The second gives a composite picture of George Rogers Clark's conquest of Ohio Country lands, the Adoption by Congress of the Ordinance of 1787, and the westward trek of pioneers. The third reproduces the new national memorial to "The Start of the Nation Westward," and the fourth depicts the inauguration of Gen. Arthur St. Clair as first governor of the Northwest Territory.

MORE SOCIALISM

"NAZISM," it will be remembered, is a handy abbreviation of "National
Socialism." German socialism takes another significant step in the decree issued on June 23, calling all employable men and women into the service of the state for any work the government chooses to assign them. It becomes effective on July 1 and is intended to "insure a supply of workers for any tasks important to the state."

All the drafted men and women will be obliged to work temporarily, it is announced, "under normal labor terms at jobs which are specially assigned to them, or submit themselves to particular training." Inasmuch as it seems to be the nature of Nazism to proceed always at top speed, utilizing all the available power of the state for programs of ever-increasing magnitude, it may be assumed that this drafting of total man-power and woman-power will continue as long as the Hitler system endures.

The German system is not yet "state socialism" in the sense that the Russian system is, but it is obviously moving in that direction. The two countries seem to grow more alike economically and politically, even while they express their mutual horror of each other's institutions.

Socialism makes considerable headway, too, even in countries still politically and economically free, such as Sweden, France and England. There, however, it takes the form of social democracy, which is largely voluntary and preserves a high degree of individualism.

COLONIAL FOOLISHNESS

COLONIES, it has been proved again and again, often cost their possessors more than they return in profits. All the colonies of the world produce less than three percent of the world's raw materials, according to Dr. Alvin E. Hansen, political economist at Harvard University. They do, however, have their uses.

"In the first place," he explains, "colonies offer what seems an adequate excuse for large public expenditures and thereby furnish a means to cure temporarily the problem of unemployment.

Moreover, the administration of colonies furnishes a job outlet for trained middle and upper class people."

There may be another value today. Colonies give prestige and a sense of importance to the countries holding them. This may be a more common reason for wanting them than any of the others usually given. It is doubtless why Mussolini wanted Ethiopia and why Hitler wants to get back Germany's colonies, and it

BARUCH WORKING ON MONOPOLY

WASHINGTON—Inside word is that the big-monied boys who gutted the tax bill already have got to work privately to do the same for the anti-monopoly investigation.

It missed the public eye, but Berny Baruch had a gang of research men working like beavers on the tax bill. Their job was to supply his old Mississippi friend, Senator Pat Harrison, with ammunition to strangle the capital gains and undistributed profits taxes.

Now the same group is getting busy to show the anti-monopoly investigators why big business is indispensable to the public good.

FANCY GALLUSES

Thanks to Secretary of War Harry Woodring, the President has a new pair of fancy galluses.

They consist of broad, bright red, silk shoulder bands, set off with adjustment buckles of sky blue shields with white stars, and trouser grips in the form of silver eagles with extended talons.

The President first saw the eye-popping creation on Secretary Woodring at a Cabinet meeting. He was immediately intrigued.

"Let's have a look at them, Harry," he demanded. "They are marvelous. Where did you get them; can I buy a pair?"

Woodring explained that he got the galluses as a Christmas gift from Elizabeth Hawes, New York dress designer, and offered to get another pair for Roosevelt. A week later he presented the duplicate to the President, who wears them with great gusto.

ROOSEVELT'S PAIN

Back in 1925, Franklin Roosevelt formed a law partnership with a young New York Irishman named Basil O'Connor. That partnership continued very happily for eight years and ended just before Roosevelt stepped into the White House.

Since that time Basil O'Connor and his Congressional brother John have been a worse pain in the neck to the President than anyone in the USA, Father Coughlin not excepted.

The pain began six weeks after Roosevelt took the oath of office, and ended—temporarily, at least—with the closing of the last session of Congress.

The beginning was the CCC kit-bag deal, when it was discovered that Basil O'Connor, using his ready access to the White House, had persuaded the late Louey Howe to buy army kit-bags for the CCC camps at a price considerably higher than the Army was paying for its kit-bags.

It took the adroit hand of Senator Sheppard, Chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, to whitewash this, and afterward the Senator from Texas got three diplomatic appointments (one ambassador and two ministers) from a grateful Administration.

may be why the countries holding more than their share of colonies are unwilling to give up any of them.

The war to make the world safe for autocracy isn't won yet.

World At A Glance

Admirers of Secretary of State Hull (and he has many of them) are developing quite a formidable Democratic 1940 presidential boom in behalf of the cabinet premier.

There is one and only one thing to be said to Cordell Hull's disadvantage as a presidential nominee. On election day in 1940 he will be hard upon 70. Unquestionably it is widely held that a man of his years has not a sufficient life expectancy ahead of him to justify his candidacy for the White House.

In the past the present state secretary has had another presidential handicap. A Tennessean, he has been a bit too far to the southward. He has been presidentially suggested before, when he was younger. He never took these earlier hints seriously. I have heard him say, several national campaigns ago, that, due to inherited sectional prejudices, he did not consider a southern president a possibility in his generation. I surmise that these prejudices have pretty well worn off now. However, the secretary's generation is about finished.

But so are the Democrats unless they renominate Roosevelt, or agree on Hull, old as he is.

NO SPELL-BINDER

At that, Secretary Hull is no spell-binder.

When he makes a speech it is a corking good speech—on account of what he says. The welkin does not resound to his resonance, all basically economic.

NEEDED?

All the same, the Democrats appear to be arriving at a point where they need him badly.

It will be Democratically em-

"Yankee Doodle" Played to Shame Soldiers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. B.

THE MEDICAL profession has every right to some pride in the record that was made during the Revolutionary War. There were a number of medical men who were signers of the Declaration of Independence—among them Joshua Bartlett and Mathew Thornton of New Hampshire, Oliver Wolcott of Vermont, Benjamin Rush of Pennsylvania and Lyman Hall of Georgia.

I believe it is not generally known that it was a physician who wrote "Yankee Doodle". It is true that he was not an American nor did he ever become one. He was a surgeon in the British army, Dr. Richard Shuckburgh. He died for the declaration of Independence was composed or before the Revolution began, in Schenectady in 1775. He was stationed with the British armies during the Indian wars in the Mohawk valley and saw service there. He spent nearly all of his life in America.

"Yankee Doodle" was said to have been written in the old Van Rensselaer house near Albany, New York, close to the site of old Fort Crailo. The house was standing at least year or two ago. Apparently Dr. Shuckburgh was very much amused by the cocky ways of Colonial Americans, and he also admired their fighting ability and their courage in battle.

The tune was from an old jig well known in the eighteenth century. The first verse he wrote was:

Yankee Doodle is the tune
Americans delight in:
"Twill do to whistle, sing or play,
And just the thing for fighting.
When actual hostilities began between the British and the Co-

The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

We offer this little historical es-ay in lieu of the usual warnings against the dangers of the Fourth of July. These warnings should now be pretty well stereotyped and well known. If you do not regard them, it is your own fault if you get hurt. At the present time we need more warnings against the reckless driving on such holidays as the Fourth of July than we do against firecrackers.

The number of people killed by fireworks since 1900 is greater than the number of American soldiers killed in the Revolutionary war.

McINTYRE

McIntyre gave thought to that for a moment.

"Yes," he said, eventually. "That might do. They will be on the lookout for officers when they start drifting away. If we strike now, we may catch them unprepared. Let's try it. Oh, Blake!"

He called a young officer and issued crisp commands. Ten minutes later Bill and a dozen border patrolmen were speeding back toward the DD ranch. Bill was trying to give every possible detail to the men in his car, including McIntyre, so that all might know exactly what move to make when they arrived.

There is only one road out of the place, Bill explained. "A car turned sideways near the main gate will block that. If they take to the canyons and hills, they'll have to do it on foot, and we can use our ranch horses to ride them down. What gets me, though, is how to separate the smugglers and aliens from the honest guests."

"I hate to mess up Miss Dale's party," McIntyre admitted. "But we simply may have to raid it, hold every man who can't show he is an American citizen."

"There'll be resistance, sure as fate."

Bill was grim about it. He almost wished he had not reported his discovery, that he had let the party go on as planned and let the smugglers get away without being molested at all. He owed that much to Ellen.

On the other hand—did ne?

Wouldn't Ellen herself want him to be a good citizen first? Wouldn't she think nine remiss, as a man, if he allowed smugglers just to keep a fiesta crowd undisturbed?

It never dawned on him that during the past few months he had come to make virtually every decision on a basis of how Ellen Dale would want it done.

"Naturally. But—I hardly need to tell you that smugglers are dangerous men."

"I know."

"Have you some plan, Baron? You know the situation there. What do you suggest?"

"Nothing very positive, I'm afraid, sir. But I think we might take a dozen or so armed officers, all drive up to the ranch in a body and take most of the men quickly without any violence. Take advantage of a surprise, early in the evening."

DEFICIT AT END OF FISCAL YEAR $1,450,000,000

Income For 1938 To Set All-Time Record Of $6,250,000,000

EXPENDITURES LOWER

Desterilization Of Gold One Of Features

WASHINGTON, June 30—(UP)—The Federal government ends its fiscal year today with a deficit of approximately $1,450,000,000—the smallest in New Deal history.

Income for the year ending at midnight is expected to reach an all-time high of $6,250,000,000, nearly $1,000,000,000 greater than the previous record set last year.

Expenditures, however, have dropped below the $8,000,000,000 mark for the first time in three years.

Most recent official figures placed the public debt at $37,121,538,483, approximately $600,000,000 less than treasury estimates of six months ago and $700,000,000 under the all-time record set last March.

The record income was caused by the fact that, during at least half the fiscal period, individuals and corporations were paying taxes on incomes received during the most prosperous months of recent years. The effects of the precipitous business decline did not show until the nation began paying its 1937 taxes in March and June.

Relief Not Figured In

The New Deal's recovery program, on the other hand, contemplating expenditures of more than $5,000,000,000 to stimulate business, was scarcely moving during the 1938 fiscal year. A $250,000,000 item for relief was the only appropriation not contemplated in President Roosevelt's January budget.

Reduction of the public debt resulted from the treasury's desterilization of $1,392,000,000 of inactive gold—a move which in itself was one of the outstanding financial actions of the year.

Approximately $600,000,000 of this money, was and will be put into public circulation by paying off relatively small quantities of treasury bills weekly. The balance remains in the treasury's cash box and is available for current expenses. The $800,000,000 left can be used for any purpose and is expected to reduce by that amount the quantity of borrowing necessary to provide for the lending spending program.

Reduction of debt through the use of desterilized old brought a decline in the government's "ordinary" debts—the current borrowing necessary to keep the treasury's working balance at a safe level—for the first time since 1930. This reduction amounted to $352,000,000 June 27. Including the special mandatory obligations, however, the public debt rose nearly $697,000,000.

Expenditures Cited

Most recent treasury statistics showed that the government spent $2,145,447,414 through June 27 on recovery and relief, compared with $3,047,478,823 for the same period last year. Of this total, the Works Progress Administration spent $1,455,073,913 and the Farm Security Administration $178,630,167. The remainder was accounted for through emergency funds allocated for highway construction, flood control, reclamation and miscellaneous other items.

MISSION WORK WIDE IN SCOPE OVER LIBERIA

WASHINGTON (UP)—American missionaries in Liberia travel hundreds of miles each year through the steaming jungles, in hammocks borne by natives, to perform their religious, medical and educational work, according to the Rt. Rev. Leopold Krull, Protestant Episcopal bishop to the African republic.

For six months of the year the bishop and his assistants explore the jungle, or travel up and down 450 miles of coastline in his launch, seeking to convert the natives and giving them medical care and schooling.

In the other six months, Bishop Krull said, torrential rains make missionary work impossible except along a small strip of coast. The air is so damp that leather shoes and hat bands become covered with mold overnight.

There are not more than 20,000 descendants of the American slaves who founded the republic, the bishop said, and these are the citizens of the country. He estimated that 1,500,000 aborigines, who formerly were the terror of the settlers, and who are still by no means civilized, inhabit the jungle.

The son says, "Well, suppose a fella leaves the other side and joins your party—is he a traitor?" The politician says, "Oh, no, he's a convert."

McCormick Youth Hunted In New Mexico Thickets

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 30—(UP)—The pinon thickets in the lower mountain ranges Northeast of here will be searched today in the hope that some trace of Medill McCormick, missing millionaire climber, may be found. A strange man was seen in that area.

Mccormick has been missing since June 22, when he and Richard Whitmer started to scale Sandia mountain. Whitmer's body was found two days later on a mountain ledge where he had fallen.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, mother of McCormick, is convinced that he is not on the mountain. She feels that he may have suffered a shock, possibly when he saw his friend fall, which left him dazed. If he is wandering in the area close to Sandia mountain, however, a thorough hunt has revealed no trace.

Gun Shot Heard

William Murphy, an Albuquerque policeman, and Dick Montoya of Bernalillo, sighted the strange man. He was across a deep canyon and too far away for them to make out his features. Murphy said he either wore a brown shirt or that his shirt had been ripped away and his body tanned. It was impossible to cross the canyon, Murphy said. A few minutes later he and Montoya heard a gun shot and a bullet whistled near them.

Sheriff John Flaska, who said he was "playing a hunch" sent Indian tracking and cowboys from Mrs. Simms ranch into the country north of Sandia late yesterday. They discovered nothing when darkness ended search for the day and Flaska said he would send them back today.

Mrs. Courtland Barnes Jr., sister of young McCormick, yesterday found the keys to McCormick's car, in which he and Whitmer drove to the base of Sandia. McCormick had hidden them under a rock. Mrs. Barnes said that once before when McCormick carried his keys with him on a mountain scaling expedition he lost them and had to walk home.

friends once—Lee and Meade—but on this day they watched and made the decisions which would cost men's lives and would leave them cast in bronze for posterity, facing each other across the fields.

The orders had been given. The little puffs of artillery smoke died out like cloudy mushrooms. Out of the woods on Seminary ridge came Pickett's men and they say that even the raw recruits on the hills ahead gasped in admiration as their perfect line tramped the new corn to the ground. Then the cannon found their range.

"They went down like blackbirds," Gellette remembered "When Pickett charged, we went too. The corn was knee high. We carried the flag. We went up the hill but we couldn't stay there. They've got markers now right on the spots where we went. It was a hot day and we fought."

COUNTRY CLUB GOLFERS LOSE INTER-CLUB MATCH AT WASHINGTON C. H.

JOHNNY MADER CARDS 75 FOR LOWEST SCORE

Only Four Contests Go To Local Shooters Wednesday

Pickaway Country Club golfers went to Washington C. H., Wednesday afternoon, to take a 52-17 beating at the hands of the sharpshooters representing the Fayette club. Johnny Mader, whose 75 was the best 18-hole score listed during the day, gained three points as did Dewey Black, those two being the only Circleville golfers to gain clean sweeps.

Other Circleville winners were Frank Marion and Charles Glitt.

The Washington C. H. club swingers took advantage of their level, tree-studded course to give the local team one of its worst defeats.

Few low scores were turned in, Mader combining 38-39 for his splendid mark. Bill Bowman, who lost to Tony Capuano, Washington pro, carded a 79 against the home shooter's 78. R. Cornwell, Washington club champion, came home in 76.

The golfers enjoyed a social evening during which several of the local men won golf ball prizes. The Washington C. H. team comes to Circleville later in the summer.

LAWRIN COULD HAVE WON THIS RACE BY CRAWLING

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 30—(UP)—Herbert Woolf of Kansas City, Mo., was $40,000 richer today because his three-year-old, Lawrin, galloped around the track here yesterday with virtually no opposition in the $50,000 added stake.

Columbus won its fifth straight contest when it downed Louisville 4 to 1. The second game of the scheduled twin bill was postponed when the lighting system failed in the last half of the first inning.

War Admiral's Splendid Racing Record Smashed

By HENRY McLEMORE

BOSTON, June 30.—(UP)—If I were a Dale Carnegie pupil, intent on making friends and influencing people (Sam Riddle and War Admiral, say) I would bestir myself to think up a fine, fat excuse for War Admiral's defeat yesterday in the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap at Suffolk Park.

But I'm through making excuses. I'm worn out from making excuses for horses—horses who wouldn't hand me an oat if I were starving. I practically took up room and board in Stagehand's throat in Louisville in order to justify his withdrawal from the Derby; I made housemaid's knee a major disease to excuse Seabiscuit in the $100,000 "Belmont bust," and I thumbed through the hemeophiliac complaints of the Hapsburgs trying to excuse War Admiral for not showing up for the $20,000 suburban.

Here's the reason War Admiral, the pampered patrician of the turf, was beaten (1) by Menow, (2) Eusy K., a direct descendant of the lead donkey on the famed 40-mile Borax team, and (3) by War Minstrel, whose full half brother was placed on sale recently in tubes, by the Lepage Glue company.

He was out-run. He was plumb out-run.

Beaten Whole Way

He was beaten out of the starting gate, he was beaten at the quarter pole, he was beaten at the half-mile marker, he was beaten where the three quarter pole lifts its pepper minted head, he was beaten at the top of the stretch, and he was beaten at the finish.

You can't excuse him on the ground that the track was heavy. You can't take a mile of mother earth around just to please a horse. After all, champion—a true champion—must ask no favors of man or the elements. He must take what he finds and rise above it.

Charley Kurtsinger gave three reasons for the ending of the most brilliant winning streak in the modern history of the turf. Charley, who has had a leg up on War Admiral in all of his big races, said 130 pounds was too much weight, that the track was too muddy, and that the Admiral cut his right front leg at the three quarters post.

There is an answer to each of those reasons. The 130-pound impost came as no surprise; Owner Sam Riddle and Trainer Conway knew about it weeks ago, and neither gentleman has reputation for putting up with an unfair weight.

The must have believed the Admiral was equal to giving Menow 23 pounds, else they wouldn't have stood for it.

As for the heavy track, it was the same track for all six runners. And for the cut on his foot—War Admiral gave himself the same injury in the Belmont stakes a year ago and went on to win and set a world's record for the distance.

No Excuses Accepted

In short, War Admiral had no excuses. He had a free run, from flagfall to finish. Menow just wouldn't be beaten. He took charge at the start and defied one and all, including the mighty son of Man O' War, to take it from him.

War Admiral came close to doing just that, after a tremendous run down the back stretch.

As Menow whipped into the far turn that leads to the stretch and home, War Admiral came within a head of collaring him. But Menow, the horse everybody thought was a quitter after a mile had been run, looked the champion in the eye and as good as said: "I'm not quitting today. I'm going on, and I'm going fast."

Menow did just that.

In the next furlong he blazed to a lead of seven lengths, and finished with Jockey Nickie Wall riding him like a police chief in a parade.

That was the race—Menow's speed.

It was Ted Williams, rangy 21 year old outfielder; and Jim Tabor, a fine-looking third baseman. Williams is the Association's home run king and leading batsman with an average of .359. Tabor, playing his first season of "double A" ball, is among the 10 leading hitters with a mark of .322 and is a good defensive performer.

Williams is headed for the Boston Red Sox and Tabor likely will go to the same club.

Both Williams and Tabor played important roles in the double triumph the Millers scored yesterday over Milwaukee. Minneapolis won the first game of the twin bill 18 to 7 and took the nightcap 7 to 1.

Kansas City and Indianapolis split their double-headers to remain deadlocked for first place. Kansas City lost a 3 to 2 struggle in 13 innings with St. Paul and then came back to grab a 13 to 1 decision. Indianapolis was beaten 5 to 1 in the opener by Toledo and won the second 4 to 1.

Columbus won its fifth straight contest when it downed Louisville 4 to 1. The second game of the scheduled twin bill was postponed when the lighting system failed in the last half of the first inning.

AT THE GRAND

Presenting a fascinating mixture of sparkling comedy and gay romance, Universal's "Prescription For Romance," is at Grand Theatre.

"Prescription For Romance" offers Wendy Barrie, Kent Taylor, Mischa Auer, Frank Jenks, Dorothy Kent, Gregory Gaye and Henry Hunter in leading roles.

The story tells the wild flight of an American embezzler to Budapest Hungary, and the maze of complications that ensue when a detective tries to run him down. Wendy Barrie and Kent Taylor furnish most of the romance while Mischa Auer, as the penniless Count Sandor and Frank Jenks, as the impetuous and brash newspaper correspondent furnish scores of laughs.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Jack Holt, that most dependable hero of violent and melodramatic screen stories, does his stuff with a high degree of efficiency in his latest hair-raiser, "Making the Headlines," which is showing Friday and Saturday on a double bill with "Hopalong Cassidy" at the Cliftona Theatre under the Columbia aegis. Aided by an unusually fine cast, Pack winds up with another really swell picture to his credit.

Police Lieutenant Lewis Nagel is shipped off to the suburban town of Fairview when his gang-busting activities receive so much favorable publicity that the higher-ups in the police department are offended. A good deal of this glory is hung on Nagel by his pal, Steve Withers, a reporter with a vivid imagination. Steve practically has been able to depend on Nagel for seven good stories a week, so he is quite as sad as Nagel when the two-fisted cop is exiled.

As a matter of fact, Steve arranges on a pretext to have himself assigned to Fairview.

The town is just about as dead as they come. The jail is dusty from lack of use, Nagel and Steve are bored. Then a girl comes to town on a visit. Steve falls for the girl, steals her necklace to make a story, and accidentally falls into a murder-mystery that Nagel has plenty of trouble to solve.

23 Cases To Be Investigated By Countians

Pickaway county grand jury will convene on July 5 at 9 a.m. Arrangements for the session were completed Wednesday by Judge Phil A. Henderson of Logan, who is serving in Common Pleas court during the absence of Judge J. W. Atkins, and George Gerhardt, county prosecutor.

Heading the cases to come before the jury are two manslaughter charges against Beeman Leasure, 28, of the Brimstone district of Ross county. Leasure is charged with being responsible for the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Crawford, Whisler residents, in an auto accident on Route 50 on May 9. The Crawfords were returning to their homes after attending the Northwest Territory celebration in Circleville. Mr. Crawford was killed instantly. Mrs. Crawford died about 10 hours after the accident.

$5,000 Bond Not Provided

Leasure has been held in the county jail after failure to furnish bonds of $2,500 on each charge.

Twenty-three cases are on file for consideration by the jury. In addition to the two manslaughter charges there are nine for assault and battery, four for uttering menacing threats, two for operating motor vehicles when intoxicated, one for failure to stop for a school bus, one for breaking and entering, one for resisting an officer, one for auto theft, one non-support and one failure to pay for lodgings.

SHERIFF, AIDS HUNT GYPSIES AFTER ROBBERY

George Wrightsel Reports Theft Of $21.50 From His Purse

OTHER LOOTING CHECKED

Band Operating In Other Ohio Counties

The sheriff's department was searching Thursday for a band of gypsies, members of which robbed George Wrightsel, E. Corwin street, of $21.50.

Mr. Wrightsel said he met the gypsies about 8:15 a.m. Thursday but did not learn that his money was missing until about 10 o'clock. He said he was walking on Corwin street when a large car carrying three gypsies, one man and two women, approached him and a woman in the front seat inquired concerning the name of the city. She told Mr. Wrightsel she was deaf and he would have to talk louder. He said the gypsy opened the front door of the car, sat sideways in the seat and he walked close to the car to talk. Mr. Wrightsel said the woman did not leave the car. Later he discovered the money missing from his purse. He believes the gypsy took the purse from his pocket, removed the money, then returned it.

The sheriff's department said at noon that gypsy robberies had been reported in Fayette county and near Laurelvile.

PRESIDENT HITS DETROIT TRUCKER DICTATORSHIP RUNS 'FLASHER' IN N. E. A. TALK FINED $5, COSTS

NEW YORK, June 30—(UP)—President Roosevelt inferentially but vigorously criticized government by dictatorship today.

Addressing delegates to the convention of the National Education association, on the grounds of the 1939 World Fair, he spoke out against the suppression of art and culture in such a way that he left no doubt in his listeners' minds that he was referring to events in Germany since the Nazis took power.

He mentioned no names. An hour before, the President had addressed local and foreign dignitaries in laying the cornerstone of what will be the federal building at the fair.

Declaring that education must be kept intellectually free, he said that "such things did not need as much emphasis a generation ago; but when the clock of civilization can be turned back by burning libraries, by exiling scientists, artists, musicians, writers and teachers, by dispersing universities, and by censoring news and literature and art, an added burden is placed on those countries where the torch of free thought and free learning still burns bright."

POWERS FIXING LIMITATION ON SIZE OF SHIPS

LONDON, June 30—(UP)—The United Kingdom, France and the United States signed a protocol today substituting 45,000 tons for 35,000 tons as the extreme limit of the size of capital ships, Alfred Duff Cooper, first lord of the admiralty, informed the House of Commons.

The maximum size of guns on ships will remain at 16 inches.

Duff Cooper announced Germany has signed a similar agreement and the adhesion of Soviet Russia is expected shortly.

He said Britain had notified the other powers that she does not intend to exceed 40,000 tons as long as no other European power does. Two British battleships on the 1936 program, he said, will be of 40,000 tons and mount 16-inch guns.

Duff Cooper's announcement was formal notification of invocation by the United States, Great Britain and France of the escalator clause of the 1936 London naval treaty.

SHANGHAI, June 30—(UP)—The newspaper Saotungpao reported today that French authorities were rushing construction of anti-aircraft batteries at Kwangchow, French possession on the South China coast, opposite the island of Hainan.

Reinforcements of the French fleet arrived at Kwangchow, only French naval stronghold on the China seacoast, and squadrons of French naval planes were arriving as a result of the Japanese threat to occupy the island of Hainan, opposite French Indo-China.

The newspaper said that French war vessels, which had been anchored in the northern harbor of Hainan island, had returned to Kwangchow and that most of the Japanese war ships had been withdrawn from the Hainan area.

Only 24 Japanese war ships remain off the Kwangtung coast. A number were sent up the Yangtze river to assist in the attack on Hankow, the newspaper said.

MOODY, JACOBS TO MEET AGAIN AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 30—(UP)—Mrs. Helen Willis Moody and Helen Jacobs, rivals for more than a decade, gained the final round of the all-England singles championship today and on Saturday will resume the most bitter feud in tennis.

Mrs. Jacobs, unseeded at the start of the tournament, crushed Alice Marble of San Francisco, No. 1 in American ranking, 6-4, 6-4, and Mrs. Moody, seven times a winner here, outlasted Mrs. Hilde Krahwinkel Sperling of Denmark, 12-10, 6-4.

The last time the two California rivals met was in the Wimbledon final of 1935 when Mrs. Moody won in one of the most dramatic matches ever played on the historic center court sod. Miss Jacobs, with a 5-2 lead in the deciding set, had reached match point in the ninth game but

General Revenue Fund Gone, Auditor Declares With Payroll Due

INSTITUTIONS SUFFER

Deficit in Old Age Pension Treasury Cited

COLUMBUS, June 30—(UP)—Depletion of the state's general revenue fund to vanishing point will mean a delay of several days in meeting the $300,000 June welfare institution payroll and a lag of nearly a month in paying other bills outstanding against the fund, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson predicted today.

Warning that the general revenue fund "is broke," Ferguson said it was doubtful whether June salary payments could be made on schedule July 5 to about 3,800 institutional employees.

Likewise, he found it necessary to transfer $160,000 from the undivided intangibles tax fund to meet old age pension grants this month in 22 counties. This was necessary, Ferguson said because of insufficient federal matching funds, traceable to incorrect estimates of the state old age pension division of the need for federal money. Delayed checks will reach pensioner in a day or so, he added.

Collections Awaited

Ferguson said he hoped early collections of taxes on foreign insurance companies and domestic and foreign business franchises would make payments of institutional workers possible "by July 9 or 10." Other bills, it was indicated might have to go over until August when additional collections are expected to raise the fund to perhaps $5,000,000 or $6,000,000.

Welfare workers may suffer because their payrolls is presented last each month. Employees of other departments probably will receive their checks on time as sufficient funds were on hand when their pay vouchers came in.

The general revenue fund which is subject to drastic fluctuations, is usually low during early summer months, but this year "expenditures merely exceeded the receipts," according to the auditor.

For the last six months it has been necessary for the state to finance a deficit in old age pension funds amounting to a total of $400,000, Ferguson said, because federal money was not available in adequate amounts.

He said officials of the division of aid for the aged made too low an estimate on the amount the state would need in federal matching money to pay all monthly awards, and indicated that unless conditions were remedied, a more serious problem might arise in meeting July pension grants.

It was understood that of the $400,000, the federal government would pay in approximately $281,000 by the end of next month and the balance in October.

Farmer Has Completed His Harvest for 1938

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Ashville, Phone 79

Doc Derrett, they told us Wednesday evening, is through threshing his wheat crop for 1938, but the party failed to know the number of bushels, quality or moisture content. Yesterday was an ideal drying day and both the combine and threshing machine wheat will be coming into the market in larger quantities each day. Benford Millar was first in with a load of threshing machine wheat which tested 58 with a moisture of 16, so they told us. Some "combined" wheat was received but will have to be run through the dryer to reduce the moisture for shipment or storage.

Park Inspected

Being "Referee of the Court" we have the right to make inspections of any and all kinds of work going on in the village with power to enforce orders same as the League of Nations. But our talk sometimes does a lot of good, lightens the chest a heap. Made yesterday evening one of these inspection trips out to the park and am much pleased with what has been done there and this especially refers to the rebuilding of the rickety old bleachers and the toilets and bubble fountain. The "boys" have done a good job and we are glad to brag on 'em—kids like this, you know.

Ashville—
Blocks Being Made

Fred Curry and his force are making cement blocks again, the supply having run low. Herb Gregg is finishing a new addition to Spaeth's Place which will be ready for occupancy in a few days, they said. And Rube Webber and his workers, Woodraw Bandy and Ed Wells are placing a new sanitary sewer for Mrs. Hattie Rife. We know for sure the boys did not loaf on the job. And more, the fire-works are here in Ashville in storage and ready for the word to cut loose. The boys told us the cost was $150 and if they've fibbed about it, there will be plenty of fireworks waiting for 'em below.

Ashville—
More Pheasants Expected

The state hatchery at Newark, some weeks ago sent Benford Miller near So. Bloomfield, 600 baby pheasants. These without scarcely any loss, are confined in 27 small pens. And now very soon, will be transferred to larger quarters and 600 more from the same hatchery will be placed in the pens vacated by the first lot. The first shipment will have their liberty about August 1, being distributed in different parts of the county. It is the fees paid for hunters' licenses, that make this rearing of pheasants possible. And the fishing license fees place millions of small fish in streams over the state.

PLEA OF KILLER CONSIDERED BY CLEMENCY BOARD

COLUMBUS, June 30—(UP)—The Ohio clemency board today had under advisement the plea for mercy by counsel for William Hobbs, Hamilton, sentenced to die in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary July 6.

Attorney Fred Kramer told the Hobbs was under the influence of liquor at the time of the robbery April 12, 1937, when he is accused of slaying Patrolman Arthur Sponsell of Hamilton.

Prosecutor and Paul Baden said it was admitted Hobbs was intoxicated at the time but such circumstance was not sufficient reason for clemency.

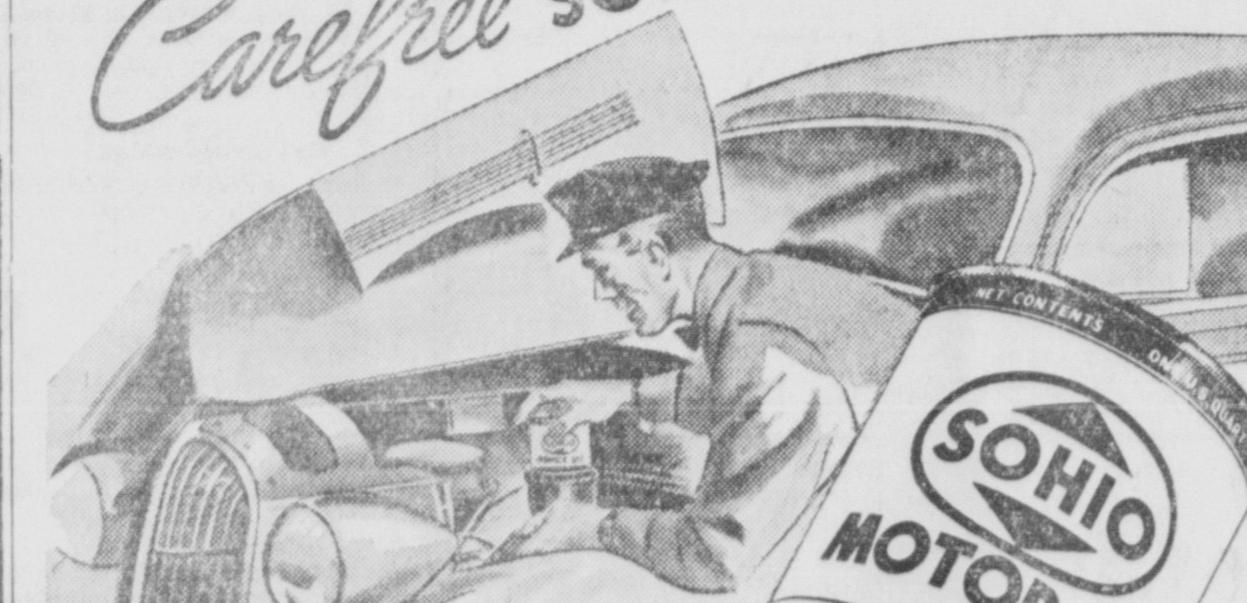

The board will make a recommendation to Governor Davey.

Veterans of North and South Recall Gettysburg

Confederate Soldier, 93, Tells Story

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 30—(UP)—Old Memories puffed like the smoke of cannon from the battlefield at Gettysburg today when veterans of the Civil War looked again on the hills that shook with the thunder of conflict three quarters of a century ago.

Men in blue along the cemetery wall where Meade's troops once lay in the grass; gray-jacketed veterans in the woods of Seminary ridge from which once billowed Pickett's brigades; and a mingling of gray and blue across the rolling farmlands marked the final reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans on the 75th anniversary of the battle.

For three days, almost 2,000 veterans from North and South have been gathering for the anniversary observance which formally opens tomorrow. Only stragglers were coming into the huge tent cities on the outskirts of the town this morning in contrast to the train-loads which arrived yesterday. This day they rested, reminisced, and saw again the greatest battlefield of the war in which they fought.

Major General O. R. Gellette saw it and the memory of another hot day long ago popped like distant gunfire in his mind.

Congressman Ran

"I was young then, but I was big as any man," he said, and his old eyes half closed as he remembered. "I was 18 when I fought at Bull Run and the congressmen who came out with their cigars to see us rebels licked went home in a hurry, I tell you."

"I carried Jackson from the field at Chancellorsville, and then we come up the Shenandoah. The crops wasn't much. We supported Pickett's left and when he charged we went too. We could see the peaches in the trees across the field. The corn was knee-high. It was a hot day and we fought."

The burden of 93 years hasn't bent Gellette's broad shoulders. His eyes are bright and the words snap from his lips. But few who walked those hills had seen or could remember the awful fury of those days when cannon thunder threaded the sky and gun wheels pressed the yellow wheat into the dirt of the fertile valley.

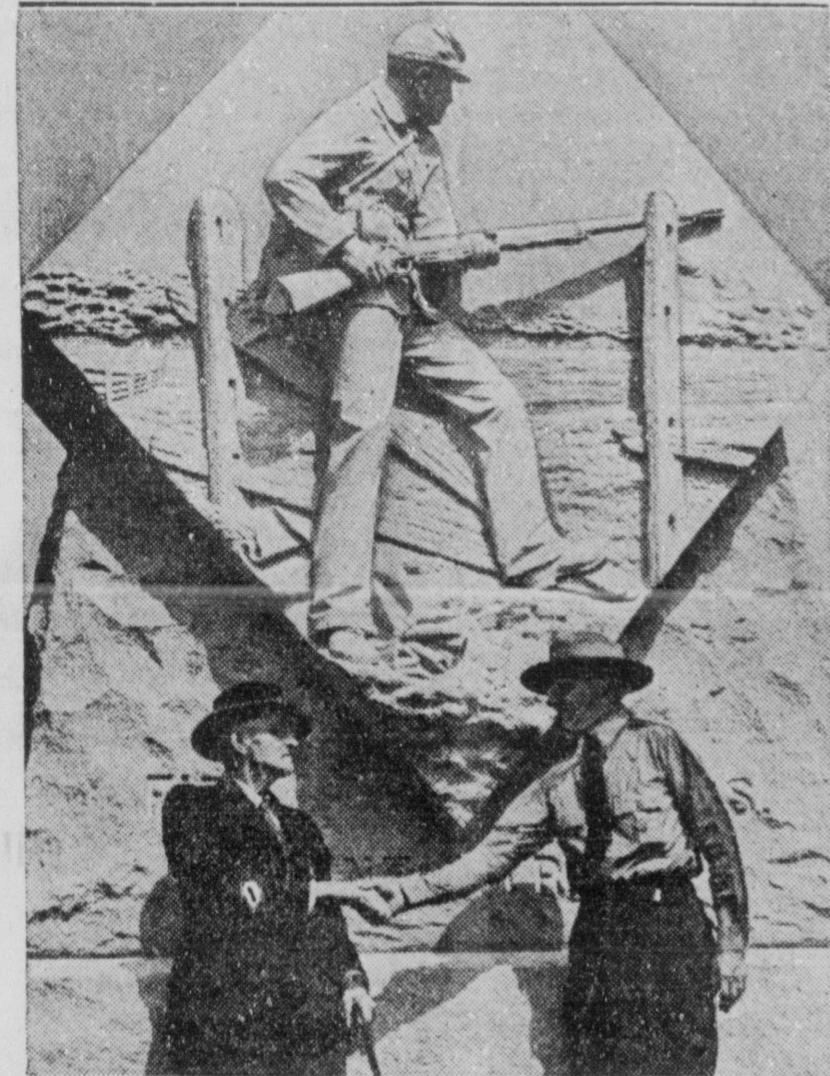

Here, where the Blue Ridge foothills fade into rolling farmlands, the army of Northern Virginia rolled northward behind "Jeb" Stuart's cavalry to strike at Harrisburg and Philadelphia to find shoes for weary feet and food to fill knapsacks almost empties of parched corn rations.

Gellette remembered it, how Lee's war-tired men came out of the Shenandoah and into the land of the Pennsylvania Dutch.

"The crops wasn't much," he said, "because of the war."

And he remembered, too, how Meade's army of the Potomac reached out along the roads that centered like spokes of a wheel at Gettysburg, and how they met

As Veterans Gather

ALVIN F. TOLMAN (left), 90-year-old Civil War veteran from Nanatee, Fla., and Watertown, Mass., was the first to arrive for the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg at the historic battlefield in Pennsylvania. He is shown shaking hands with James R. McConaghie, superintendent of the Gettysburg National Military Park. For the first time in history both North and South take part in the anniversary encampment.

there to fight and to forget they ever needed shoes.

"We opened the battle," he said, his strong hand sweeping out toward the fields west of the town. "The town is different now than it was then, but there's two buildings I recognized right off. They say Lincoln stopped in one of them later to finish a speech he made here. I was in Davis brigade, Heath's division, Hill's corps, the army of Northern Virginia."

Not Gellette or any of the rest saw more than a flicker of the whole picture when the advance guards curved together on that first day 75 years ago; or when they dug their worn boots into the turf of nearby ridges on the following days that marked with hot blood the spots on which their

Recalled by Union Man

R. W. Huff, 98, of San Bernardino, Calif., remembered that day from his post in the Union lines. So did John C. Smith, 108, of Meridian, Miss., whose 46th Georgia regiment charged toward the rocky slopes of Little Roundtop hill, a stride behind Union troops, urgently summoned to guard that key to the battle grounds.

Somewhere in that furious charge across the valley, a spent bullet thudded into Smith's cheek and he spit it out into his powder-blackened hand and went on to fight across the hill top and, finally, to give it up to the Union reinforcements.

There were others here today who remembered it, too. One was Allan McClue, 88, of Santa Monica, Calif., who carried water to the Union men sprawled along the ridge; another was Charles D. Clarke, of Austin, Texas, who lay near the Confederates watching the artillery a mile away across the valley; and still another was Robert C. Blair, 94, of Los Angeles, who rode with the 16th Pennsylvania cavalry through the woods beyond Spangler's spring and listened for the defiant yell of Stuart's horsemen.

"That was our job," Blair said with a hesitant chuckle. "Looking for J. E. B. Stuart and trying to (Continued on Page Eight)

This was Lee's gamble—a gamble that must come in any war. But this time it was a chance he took with full knowledge that it must mean final success or failure. Behind him men in Virginia lay victories that had brightened their swords, but left little food for their stomachs. Ahead of him was a rich granary of the North. Thus they moved, partly by chance, toward the fish-hook shaped ridges of Gettysburg and the tall, thin-lipped Meade who came hesitantly up from the Potomac with no choice but to meet them on northern soil.

"It was Reynolds opposed us first," Gellette remembered. "We lost Captain Stone when he was wounded the first day. We drove them back after Reynolds was killed and chased them through the town. We lost a lot of men on that day."

That was the day Lee might have won the battle of Gettysburg and gone on to make some other field the site of heroic statues and the scene of presidential pilgrimages. But the rebel yell died out with the sun. Next day Meade's men crouched behind the stone wall on Cemetery hill, many of them within sight of their own farms, and the two armies braced for the test of strength.

MARIETTA FETE TO OPEN JULY 2, CLOSES JULY 17

Second Issue Of Wooden Nickles On Sale As Part Of Event

MARIETTA, June 30—(UP)—The second issue of "wooden nickels" has gone on sale here as part of the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the establishment of American civil government West of the 13 original states.

The event will be celebrated from July 2-17 with spectacular pageants, parades, fireworks, conventions of historical and patriotic organizations, an American Legion festival, memorial dedication ceremonies and a reunion of pioneers' descendants.

A pageant, "Stars of the Flag," with a cast of 1,200 will be presented daily July 7 to 17 on a 300-foot stage in Marietta Stadium.

Roosevelt to Speak

On July 8 President Roosevelt is scheduled to dedicate the National Memorial to "The Start of the Nation Westward" designed by Gutzon Borglum and erected in the park on the east bank of the Muskingum river.

During the April celebration of the 150th anniversary of the landing of the Ohio Company pioneers at the mouth of the Muskingum, more than 60,000 rectangular wooden nickels circulated throughout the country, and the complete series of six issues has become prized by collectors of souvenirs.

The Northwest Territory Celebration Commission plans to limit the July nickels to five issues of 5,000 each and one de luxe issue according to the demand.

The nickels are redeemable in U. S. coin until July 18. Although the odd medium of exchange is being widely circulated and is accepted by merchants in Marietta and nearby communities, there have been few requests for redemption.

Special Stamp Issue

The Post Office Department will issue a special 3-cent stamp for first-day sale at Marietta, July 15. To provide an appropriate official cover for use with this stamp, the commission has announced a series of four cachets, designed to commemorate the sequence of historical events connected with the establishment of American government in the Northwest Territory in 1788.

Central feature of the new stamp, purple in color and .75c.87 inches in size, is a view of the riverside memorial, designed by Borglum. The Northwest Territory Anniversary series of covers is of particular interest historically. The first cover shows, against a background map of the Territory, the advent of French missionaries, fur traders and explorers. The second gives a composite picture of George Rogers Clark's conquest of Ohio Country lands, the Adoption by Congress of the Ordinance of 1787, and the westward trek of pioneers. The third reproduces the new national memorial to "The Start of the Nation Westward," and the fourth depicts the inauguration of Gen. Arthur St. Clair as first governor of the Northwest Territory.

MORE SOCIALISM

"NAZISM," it will be remembered, is a
handy abbreviation of "National
Socialism." German socialism takes another significant step in the decree issued on June 23, calling all employable men and women into the service of the state for any work the government chooses to assign them. It becomes effective on July 1 and is intended to "insure a supply of workers for any tasks important to the state."

All the drafted men and women will be obliged to work temporarily, it is announced, "under normal labor terms at jobs which are specially assigned to them, or submit themselves to particular training." Inasmuch as it seems to be the nature of Nazism to proceed always at top speed, utilizing all the available power of the state for programs of ever-increasing magnitude, it may be assumed that this drafting of total man-power and woman-power will continue as long as the Hitler system endures.

The German system is not yet "state socialism" in the sense that the Russian system is, but it is obviously moving in that direction. The two countries seem to grow more alike economically and politically, even while they express their mutual horror of each other's institutions.

Socialism makes considerable headway, too, even in countries still politically and economically free, such as Sweden, France and England. There, however, it takes the form of social democracy, which is largely voluntary and preserves a high degree of individualism.

COLONIAL FOOLISHNESS

COLONIES, it has been proved again and again, often cost their possessors more than they return in profits. All the colonies of the world produce less than three percent of the world's raw materials, according to Dr. Alvin E. Hansen, political economist at Harvard University. They do, however, have their uses.

"In the first place," he explains, "colonies offer what seems an adequate excuse for large public expenditures and thereby furnish a means to cure temporarily the problem of unemployment.

"Moreover, the administration of colonies furnishes a job outlet for trained middle and upper class people."

There may be another value today. Colonies give prestige and a sense of importance to the countries holding them. This may be a more common reason for wanting them than any of the others usually given. It is doubtless why Mussolini wanted Ethiopia and why Hitler wants to get back Germany's colonies, and it

BARUCH WORKING ON MONOPOLY

WASHINGTON—Inside word is that the big-monied boys who gutted the tax bill already have got to work privately to do the same for the anti-monopoly investigation.

It missed the public eye, but Berny Baruch had a gang of research men working like beavers on the tax bill. Their job was to supply his old Mississippi friend, Senator Pat Harrison, with ammunition to strangle the capital gains and undistributed profits taxes.

Now the same group is getting busy to show the anti-monopoly investigators why big business is indispensable to the public good.

FANCY GALLUSES

Thanks to Secretary of War Harry Woodring, the President has a new pair of fancy galluses.

They consist of broad, bright red, silk shoulder bands, set off with adjustment buckles of sky blue shields with white stars, and trouser grips in the form of silver eagles with extended talons.

The President first saw the eye-popping creation on Secretary Woodring at a Cabinet meeting. He was immediately intrigued.

"Let's have a look at them, Harry," he demanded. "They are marvelous. Where did you get them; can I buy a pair?"

Woodring explained that he got the galluses as a Christmas gift from Elizabeth Hawes, New York dress designer, and offered to get another pair for Roosevelt. A week later he presented the duplicate to the President, who wears them with great gusto.

ROOSEVELT'S PAIN

Back in 1925, Franklin Roosevelt formed a law partnership with a young New York Irishman named Basil O'Connor. That partnership continued very happily for eight years and ended just before Roosevelt stepped into the White House.

Since that time Basil O'Connor and his Congressional brother John have been a worse pain in the neck to the President than anyone in the USA, Father Coughlin not excepted.

The pain began six weeks after Roosevelt took the oath of office, and ended—temporarily, at least—with the closing of the last session of Congress.

The beginning was the CCC kit-bag deal, when it was discovered that Basil O'Connor, using his ready access to the White House, had persuaded the late Louey Howe to buy army kit-bags for the CCC camps at a price considerably higher than the Army was paying for its kit-bags.

It took the adroit hand of Senator Sheppard, Chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, to whitewash this, and afterward the Senator from Texas got three diplomatic appointments (one ambassador and two ministers) from a grateful Administration.

may be why the countries holding more than their share of colonies are unwilling to give up any of them.

"Yankee Doodle" Played to Shame Soldiers

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE MEDICAL profession has every right to some pride in the record that was made during the Revolutionary War. There were a number of medical men who were signers of the Declaration of Independence—among them Joshua Bartlett and Mathew Thornton of New Hampshire, Oliver Wolcott of Vermont, Benjamin Rush of Pennsylvania and Lyman Hall of Georgia.

I believe it is not generally known that it was a physician who wrote "Yankee Doodle". It is true that he was not an American nor did he ever become one. He was a surgeon in the British army, Dr. Richard Shuckburgh. He died because of his injuries in 1777, "a favorite of favorites, played in their army, esteemed as warlike as the Grenadier's March itself." "Yankee Doodle" is now played by every army band in the world. I think this is just simply marvelous!" one of the Californians declared, and meant it. "Ellen, I have learned during this messa you ought your name away out there."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

We offer this little historical essay in lieu of the usual warnings against the dangers of the Fourth of July. These warnings should now be pretty well stereotyped and well known. If you do not regard them, it is your own fault if you get hurt. At the present time we need more warnings against the reckless driving on such holidays as the Fourth of July than we do against firecrackers.

The number of people killed by fireworks since 1900 is greater than the number of American soldiers killed in the Revolutionary war.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

DEFICIT AT END OF FISCAL YEAR $1,450,000,000

Income For 1938 To Set All-Time Record Of $6,250,000,000

EXPENDITURES LOWER

Desterilization Of Gold One Of Features

WASHINGTON, June 30—(UP) The Federal government ends its fiscal year today with a deficit of approximately $1,450,000,000—the smallest in New Deal history.

Income for the year ending at midnight is expected to reach an all-time high of $6,250,000,000, nearly $1,000,000,000 greater than the previous record set last year.

Expenditures, however, have dropped below the $8,000,000,000 mark for the first time in three years.

Most recent official figures placed the public debt at $37,121,538,483, approximately $600,000,000 less than treasury estimates of six months ago and $700,000,000 under the all-time record set last March.

The record income was caused by the fact that, during at least half the fiscal period, individuals and corporations were paying taxes on incomes received during the most prosperous months of recent years. The effects of the precipitous business decline did not show until the nation began paying its 1937 taxes in March and June.

Relief Not Figured In

The New Deal's recovery program, on the other hand, contemplating expenditures of more than $5,000,000,000 to stimulate business, was scarcely moving during the 1938 fiscal year. A $250,000 item for relief was the only appropriation not contemplated in President Roosevelt's January budget.

Reduction of the public debt resulted from the treasury's desterilization of $1,392,000,000 of inactive gold—a move which in itself was one of the outstanding financial actions of the year.

Approximately $600,000,000 of this money, was and will be put into public circulation by paying off relatively small quantities of treasury bills weekly. The balance remains in the treasury's cash box and is available for current expenses. The $800,000,000 left can be used for any purpose and is expected to reduce by that amount the quantity of borrowing necessary to provide for the lending-spending program.

Reduction of debt through the use of desterilized old brought a decline in the government's "ordinary" debts—the current borrowing necessary to keep the treasury's working balance at a safe level—for the first time since 1930. This reduction amounted to $352,000,000 June 27. Including the special mandatory obligations, however, the public debt rose nearly $697,000,000.

Expenditures Cited

Most recent treasury statistics showed that the government spent $2,145,447,414 through June 27 on recovery and relief, compared with $3,047,478,823 for the same period last year. Of this total, the Works Progress Administration spent $1,455,073,913 and the Farm Security Administration $178,630,167. The remainder was accounted for through emergency funds allocated for highway construction, flood control, reclamation and miscellaneous other items.

MISSION WORK WIDE IN SCOPE OVER LIBERIA

WASHINGTON (UP)—American missionaries in Liberia travel hundreds of miles each year through the steaming jungles, in hammocks borne by natives, to perform their religious, medical and educational work, according to the Rt. Rev. Leopold Krull, Protestant Episcopal bishop to the African republic.

For six months of the year the bishop and his assistants explore the jungle, or travel up and down 450 miles of coastline in his launch, seeking to convert the natives and giving them medical care and schooling.

In the other six months, Bishop Krull said, torrential rains make missionary work impossible except along a small strip of coast. The air is so damp that leather shoes and hat bands become covered with mold overnight.

There are not more than 20,000 descendants of the American slaves who founded the republic, the bishop said, and these are the citizens of the country. He estimated that 1,500,000 aborigines, who formerly were the terror of the settlers, and who are still by no means civilized, inhabit the jungle.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

I suppose we all have to have some principles to follow and stick up for but I imagine if you could get up high enough to get a bird's-eye view of the whole world, you'd find that some of us are pretty narrow.

I was over at a politician's house the other night and he kept talkin' about a certain fella bein' a traitor and finally his little boy spoke up and says, "Papa, what is a traitor?" The politician says, "A traitor is a man who leaves our party and goes over to the other side."

The son says, "Well, suppose a fella leaves the other side and joins your party—is he a traitor?" The politician says, "Oh, no, he's a convert."

McCormick Youth Hunted In New Mexico Thickets

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 30—(UP)—The pinon thickets in the lower mountain ranges Northeast of here will be searched today in the hope that some trace of Medill McCormick, missing millionaire climber, may be found. A strange man was seen in that area.

McCormick has been missing since June 22, when he and Richard Whitmer started to scale Sandia mountain. Whitmer's body was found two days later on a mountain ledge where he had fallen.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, mother of McCormick, is convinced that he is not on the mountain. She feels that he may have suffered a shock, possibly when he saw his friend fall, which left him dazed. If he is wandering in the area close to Sandia mountain, however, a thorough hunt has revealed no trace.

GUN SHOT HEARD

William Murphy, an Albuquerque policeman, and Dick Montoya of Bernallillo, sighted the strange man. He was across a deep canyon and too far away for them to make out his features. Murphy said he either wore a brown shirt or that his shirt had been ripped and his body tanned. It was impossible to cross the canyon, Murphy said. A few minutes later he and Montoya heard a gun shot and a bullet whistled near them.

Sheriff John Flaska, who said he was "playing a hunch" sent Indian tracking and cowboys from Mrs. Simms ranch into the country north of Sandia late yesterday. They discovered nothing when darkness ended search for the day and Flaska said he would send them back today.

Mrs. Courtland Barnes Jr., sister of young McCormick, yesterday found the keys to McCormick's car, in which he and Whitmer drove to the base of Sandia. McCormick had hidden them under a rock. Mrs. Barnes said that once before when McCormick carried his keys with him on a mountain scaling expedition he lost them and had to walk home.

COUNTRY CLUB GOLFERS LOSE INTER-CLUB MATCH AT WASHINGTON C. H.

JOHNNY MADER CARDS 75 FOR LOWEST SCORE

Only Four Contests Go To Local Shooters Wednesday

Pickaway County Club golfers went to Washington C. H., Wednesday afternoon, to take a 52-17 beating at the hands of the sharpshooters representing the Fayette club. Johnny Mader, whose 75 was the best 18-hole score listed during the day, gained three points as did Dewey Black, those two being the only Circleville golfers to gain clean sweeps.

Other Circleville winners were Frank Marion and Charles Glitt.

The Washington C. H. club swingers took advantage of their level, tree-studded course to give the local team one of its worst defeats.

Few low scores were turned in, Mader combining 38-39 for his splendid mark. Bill Bowman, who lost to Tony Capuano, Washington pro, carded 79 against the home shooter's 78. R. Cornwell, Washington club champion, came home in 76.

The golfers enjoyed a social evening during which several of the local men won golf ball prizes. The Washington C. H. team comes to Circleville later in the summer.

War Admiral's Splendid Racing Record Smashed

By HENRY MCLEMORE

BOSTON, June 30.—(UP)—If I were a Dale Carnegie pupil, intent on making friends and influencing people (Sam Riddle and War Admiral, say) I would bestir myself to think up a fine, fat excuse for War Admiral's defeat yesterday in the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap at Suffolk Park.

But I'm through making excuses. I'm worn out from making excuses for horses—horses who wouldn't hand me an oat if I were starving. I practically took up room and board in Stagehand's throat

Lenglen Dying?

FRIENDS fear for the life of Suzanne Lenglen, well-known former women's tennis champion, gravely ill with anemia in Paris.

MILLERS AIDED BY YOUNGSTERS IN LEAGUE RACE

COLUMBUS, June 30.—(UP)—For years the Minneapolis club of the American Association has been dubbed a "veterans' home," but this season the Millers have changed the order of things and include on their roster two great young players who are making determined bids for major league berths.

The big league prospects are Ted Williams, rangy 21 year old outfielder; and Jim Tabor, a fine-looking third baseman. Williams is the Association's home run king and leading batsman with an average of .359. Tabor, playing his first season of "double A" ball, is among the 10 leading hitters with a mark of .322 and is a good defensive performer.

Williams is headed for the Boston Red Sox and Tabor likely will go to the same club.

Both Williams and Tabor played important roles in the double triumph the Millers scored yesterday over Milwaukee. Minneapolis won the first game of the twin bill 18 to 7 and took the nightcap 7 to 1.

Kansas City and Indianapolis split their doubleheaders to remain deadlocked for first place.

Kansas City lost a 3 to 2 struggle in 13 innings with St. Paul and then came back to grab a 13 to 1 decision. Indianapolis was beaten 5 to 1 in the opener by Toledo and won the second 4 to 1.

Columbus won its fifth straight contest when it downed Louisville 4 to 1. The second game of the scheduled twin bill was postponed when the lighting system failed in the last half of the first inning.

CAIN'S MARKET THUMPS GLITT'S IN 20 TO 1 GAME

Six Runs In Second And 11 In Fourth Tallyled By Bloomfielders

In Louisville in order to justify his withdrawal from the Derby; I made housemaid's knee a major disease to excuse Seabiscuit in the $100,000 "Belmont bust," and I thumbed through the hemophiliac complaints of the Hapsburgs trying to excuse War Admiral for not showing up for the $20,000 suburban.

But no more.

Here's the reason War Admiral, the pampered patrician of the turf, was beaten (1) by Menwo, (2) Eusky K., a direct descendant of the lead donkey on the famed 40-mile Borax team, and (3) by War Minstrel, whose full half brother was placed on sale recently in tubes, by the Lepage Glue company.

He was out-run. He was plumb out-run.

Beaten Whole Way

He was beaten out of the starting gate, he was beaten at the quarter pole, he was beaten at the half-mile marker, he was beaten where the three quarter pole lifts its pepper minted head, he was beaten at the top of the stretch, and he was beaten at the finish.

You can't excuse him on the ground that the track was heavy. You can't take a mile of mother earth around just to please a horse. After all, a champion—a true champion—must ask no favors of man or the elements. He must take what he finds and rise above it.

Charley Kurtsinger gave three reasons for the ending of the most brilliant winning streak in the modern history of the turf. Charley, who has had a leg up on War Admiral in all of his big races, said 130 pounds was too much weight, that the track was too muddy, and that the Admiral cut his right front leg at the three quarters post.

There is an answer to each of those reasons. The 130-pound impost came as no surprise; Owner Sam Riddle and Trainer Conway knew about it weeks ago, and neither gentleman has reputation for putting up with an unfair weight.

They must have believed the Admiral was equal to giving Menow 23 pounds, else they wouldn't have stood for it. As for the heavytrack, it was the same track for all six runners. And for the cut on his foot—War Admiral gave himself the same injury in the Belmont stakes a year ago and went on to win and set a world's record for the distance.

That was the race—Menow's speed.

No Excuses Accepted

In short, War Admiral had no excuses. He had a free run, from flagfall to finish. Menow just wouldn't be beaten. He took charge at the start and defied one and all, including the mighty son of Man O' War, to take it from him.

War Admiral came close to doing just that, after a tremendous run down the back stretch.

As Menow whipped into the far turn that leads to the stretch and home, War Admiral came within a head of collaring him. But Menow, the horse everybody thought was a quitter after a mile had been run, looked the champion in the eye and as good as said: "I'm not quitting today. I'm going on, and I'm going fast."

Menow did just that. In the next furlong he blazed to a lead of seven lengths, and finished with Jockey Nickie Wall riding him like a police chief in a parade.

That was the race—Menow's speed.

AT THE GRAND

Presenting a fascinating mixture of sparkling comedy and gay romance, Universal's "Prescription For Romance," is at Grand Theatre.

"Prescription For Romance" offers Wendy Barrie, Kent Taylor, Mischa Auer, Frank Jenks, Dorothy Kent, Gregory Gaye and Henry Hunter in leading roles.

The story tells the wild flight of an American embezzler to Budapest Hungary, and the maze of complications that ensue when a detective tries to run him down. Wendy Barrie and Kent Taylor furnish most of the romance while Mischa Auer, as the penniless Count Sandor and Frank Jenks, as the impetuous and brash newspaper correspondent furnish scores of laughs.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Jack Holt, that most dependable hero of violent and melodramatic screen stories, does his stuff with a high degree of efficiency in his latest hair-raiser, "Making the Headlines," which is showing Friday and Saturday on a double bill with "Hopalong Cassidy" at the Clifftona Theatre under the Columbia aegis. Aided by an unusually fine cast, Pack winds up with another really swell picture to his credit.

Police Lieutenant Lewis Nagel is shipped off to the suburban town of Fairview when his gang-busting activities receive so much favorable publicity that the higher-ups in the police department are offended. A good deal of glory is hung on Nagel by his pal, Steve Withers, a reporter with a vivid imagination. Steve practically has been able to depend on Nagel for seven good stories a week, so he is quite as sad as Nagel when the two-fisted cop is exiled.

As a matter of fact, Steve arranges on a pretext to have himself assigned to Fairview. The town is just about as dead as they come. The jail is dusty from lack of use. Nagel and Steve are bored. Then a girl comes to town on a visit. Steve falls for the girl, steals her necklace to make a story, and accidentally falls into a murder-mystery that Nagel has plenty of trouble to solve.
